COUGARS BOW TO SONORA

High School Gridders End Season On Thursday With Game At San Juan

The Green and Gold, from the Sonora High School won the football championship of the Mother Lode League by defeating the El Dorado Cougars in a hard-fought and well-played game at Bennett Park, Saturday, 13-6.

The game, billed on the fair program and witnessed by the largest crowd to ever see a local grid contest, had all the color of a coast conference game.

Although the Cougar grid machine was not too far outdone by the visiting warriors, the local rooting section was decisively defeated by the followers of the Green and Gold, who brought with them a good-sized rooting section, in addition to their forty-three piece uniformed band. The band gave a fifteen minute drill exhibition during half time and ended their appearance, marching in a body to the El Dorado rooting section where they played the Cougar school song.

Using a double and triple shift, which the locals found hard to solve in the first half of the game, the Sonora team took the lead by scoring in the second quarter when Sinclair took the ball from the one foot line and plunged through for a score. A pass, Hoffman to Sinclair, made the extra point.

Sonora again scored in the fourth quarter, this time Sinclair going over from the two-yard line. The conversion try failed.

With the score 13-0 against them, the Cougars started rolling, but too late. The locals, with two minutes to play, scored, when Ward shot a pass to Carsten in the end zone. Singleton on a line buck was held on the conversion try.

"Wild Bill" Russell, diminutive Sonora halfback starred in the backfield for the visitors. Time and again Russell broke loose on reverses continually going for long gains and giving the local gridders plenty of grief during the game.

2 Places Robbed Early Sunday

Burglars Get $62 In Bank Cafe, Petty Cash At Arcade Bakery

Loot approximating $63 was the reward of burglars who entered two Placerville establishments sometime after 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

The places burglarized were the Arcade Bakery and the Bank Cafe, the latter being the heaviest loser.

The thieves battered in a rear door of the establishment and are reported to have stolen about $62.50 from the cash register.

At the Arcade Bakery, entry was gained through a window on the side of the establishment and one dollar in petty cash was the reward of their efforts.

In gaining entry to the bakery, the thieves had to upset a rack containing canned goods and it is presumed that the noise of the crash was drowned in the sounds of music and merry-making at the dance on the second floor of the building.

"That's A Honey," Says John Winkelman

"That's a honey," said John A. Winkelman, county horticultural agent, when he saw the fruit displays at the El Dorado County Fair on Sunday.

Winkelman had been in charge of the fruit displays but had to drop the work to submit to an appendicitis operation, and Willard Wilkinson, who had no previous experience in exhibiting fruit, took over the job.

Sunday was the first day Winkelman had been out and he spent most of the afternoon at the county fair. John was mighty proud of the fruit display and was one of the thousand whole fair.

ands who joined in praising the "This week, he is spending a few hours daily at his office in the courthouse and hoping soon to get into full-time work again.

RED CROSS ASSISTS AT COUNTY FAIR

Annual Roll Call Will Be Resumed Armistice Day; 142 Renew Memberships

The annual Roll Call of El Dorado County Chapter of the Red Cross, will be resumed on Armistice Day.

M. T. chapter chairman, reported Monday morning that in addition to the 100 per cent enrollment of Placerville Grammar School, the chapter gained 140 members who visited the Red Cross headquarters at the county fair and volunteered their memberships.

The Red Cross maintained the headquarters at the fair as a service to the public and reports treatment of 25 instances of human distress, none of which proved serious.

In addition, fifty other services were performed by the Red Cross headquarters. These varied in nature from the return of articles lost by their owners, to supplying a pin to replace a button which had dropped off at some vital and important point.

Chapter Secretary, Mrs. Edwin F. Smith, and Mrs. Ruby Allen, Mrs. Edith Rantz, Mrs. George Wickes, Mrs. M. T. Kelly and E. W. Zueger were among those who helped "man" the Red Cross headquarters at the fair.

Mrs. Will Miller, of Gold Hill, made her community the second unit in the county to raise its quota of Red Cross memberships when she turned in twenty-five for her neighborhood after a canvass of the fair grounds Saturday.

SALES TAX DESIRABLE PART OF NATION'S FISCAL PLAN

SACRAMENTO — Economists and tax administrators throughout the United States are convinced that the sales tax no longer is an emergency tax, but has become a desirable part of the country's fiscal structure necessary to meet the increased demand for governmental service such as social security and additional educational needs.

This was the word brought back from the National Tax Conference by Dixwell Pierce, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, on his return here. The conference of tax representatives of 40 states was held in Baltimore, Maryland, October 25 to 28.

Such nationally known economists as Harlin L. Lutz, professor of economics at Princeton University, and Professor Fred R. Fairchild of Yale told the conference they were convinced that the sales tax as now enforced in California and other states, has demonstrated its desirability as an effective means of meeting new revenue requirements, Pierce said.

"Both of these tax authorities confessed they had had unconceived theoretical objections to the sales tax, but they have come to realize that it is the most practical method of raising substantial amounts of public funds to supplement property tax collections as employed in the various states along with various other types of taxes," Pierce added.

Attorney and Mrs. C. W. Pearson and daughter returned over the weekend from Los Angeles. They had been called to that city by the sudden serious illness of Mr. Pearson's brother, whom they left much improved.

SPECIAL FAIR RESULTS TOLD

Amateur Hour Finals And Log-Bucking Contest On Last Day's Program

Two features of the program of special events at the El Dorado County Fair on Sunday, the closing day, were the log-bucking contest and the finals of the series of "amateur night" entertainments, staged under the auspices of El Dorado Post, No. 119, American Legion.

The log-bucking contest was held on the athletic field Sunday afternoon just before the program of horse show events, and was won by Oliver Crumb, of the California Door Company, who sawed through a 33-inch log in four minutes, eleven and three-tenths seconds.

Second place went to John Kollas, of the Sacramento Box and Lumber Company, whose time was five minutes and twenty seconds; and third place went to Ralph Burkhardt, of Blair Brothers, whose time was five minutes and fifty-three seconds.

In the amateur hour finals, which were held in the main tent at 8 o'clock in the evening, first honors for a group presentation were awarded to Mrs. Mattie Stevenson's blackface group from Salmon Falls.

Second honors in this class were won by the Placerville Grammar School Harmonica Band and third award went to the Grien quartet, of Rescue.

Raymond Perez, whistler, was the individual first place winner and second place went to Joyce Reynolds, acrobatic dancer. Clara Butler, who sang, won third award.

A consolation prize of a box of fruit was presented in each class.

The United Press informant would not say when the sale was made, nor the amount involved. The statement was made as the club directors prepared to go into formal session behind locked doors.

The same informant told the United Press the league would retain the Shaughnessy play-off system during 1938.

Hopes To Complete Journey To New York And Back In About Ten Days

Sheriff George M. Smith left Saturday evening for New York City to return H. C. Lahrs to this county to face charges of forgery.

The sheriff said he hoped to make the round trip within about ten days.

Lahrs, former bookkeeper for the Lamson Produce Company, at Lake Valley, is alleged to have forged his employer's name to checks totalling about $200.

He disappeared from Lake Valley, according to officials, about October 4 and was taken into custody at New York City by the agents of the Burns Detective Agency at the request of this county.

Lahrs also is reported to be wanted in Sacramento County on a charge of issuing fictitious checks.

He was accompanied home by Mrs. Scherrer, who has been with him during his hospital siege, and by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ward, who made the trip to San Francisco Saturday to bring him home.

Mr. Scherrer is reported to have stood the trip home very well and friends may call and see him at his Coloma Street residence. Under doctor's orders, it will be about two weeks before Mr. Scherrer makes any attempt to return to his office duties.

We are glad to report Mr. Scherrer's continued improvement.

COUNTY FAIR CLOSES WITH RECORD DAY SUNDAY

Public Opinion Commends Exposition And Officials Who Staged Event; American Legion Drum And Bugle Corps, Horse Show Furnish Colorful Climax To Three Days

The curtains which parted Friday morning to reveal an El Dorado County Fair which exceeded the expectations of the most optimistic, were drawn together again late Sunday evening and the exposition passed into history.

In its wake are the duties of concluding the business affairs of the showing and the challenge to El Dorado County to present another fair next year which will be of surpassing excellence.

Perhaps The Coach Put It There

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—"I've done a lot for my college," says Harold Putnam Williams, Jr., "but never again."

He was referring to last Saturday's Harvard-Princeton soccer game during which, as goal, he said he played the entire fourth period with a wasp in his pants.

Fair Flashes

The fair is over and when we're thinking of who put a lot of work into it, let's give a hand to "Doc" Anderson for a swell job and a vote of thanks to the state Board of Equalization for letting us borrow him for the "duration of the war."

Just by way of "cleaning up" on the display, we want to mention the display of the Placerville Lumber Company, the Beach Box and Lumber Company, the Sacramento Box and Lumber Company and the Sacramento Box Company.

Also we want to mention the entry of the El Dorado Limestone Company and with these few kind words, we conclude in the belief that we have mentioned at least once during the fair, every group which took part.

Two of the fair staff who have not been mentioned are H. E. Higgins, auditor of the fair, and Henry S. Lyon, legal advisor to the fair directors.

And then, of course, in addition to the fair directors, there are the members of the Board of Supervisors, to be mentioned, too.

The Forest Service, Agricultural Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service and the State Division of Forestry all deserve special mention.

After that, it seems, all of the citizens of El Dorado County should stand in a line and shake hands, each with his neighbor, in remembrance of a task well done.

ANOTHER SIT-DOWN STRIKE?

By JANE VOILES

Now that we have all been "fair-minded" and have had a fine example of what our country can do, it is interesting to turn to the past and examine an early document. We were permitted to see what may be the first complete census of El Dorado County. It was taken in 1852. Bancroft in his "History of California" gives a census of El Dorado County for 1855, although he gives a population estimate for 1850.

The document is written in a clear, legible hand with the use of the long "s." The four pages are tied at the top with sturdy pink tape. Mr. I. G. Dungan, census agent, addresses his report to the Court of Sessions of El Dorado County. Mr. Dungan was not a booster in our modern sense of the word. He did not believe in padding reports either as he is troubled over the fact that most of the citizens who were miners were "transitory and roving" and therefore hard to track. He reports that he passed hurriedly but not carelessly over many places and that some of the places were remote and almost inaccessible. Eighty-seven years ago there were no trusty motor cars and it doesn't take much imagination on our part to call up a vision of the roads. Certainly, Mr. Dungan would have had our sympathies.

In 1851 there were 1643½ acres under cultivation. Our census agent in his conscientious manner deemed it necessary to explain that there were large quantities of land fenced and ready for working but not under cultivation. Already persons engaged in mining had turned their attention to farming. The immigrants who had crossed the plains had taken up land also but this was not under cultivation so that the punctilious Mr. Dungan could not put it down.

Although Bancroft gives the population of El Dorado County as 20,000 in 1850, Mr. Dungan's figures fall much below this number. He regrets "exceedingly" to quote his words, that he had to render so small a number. In 1852 according to his report there were 13,715 white inhabitants in El Dorado County. Of these, 11,203 were male and 508 female (what a break for the ladies). Negroes, mulattoes and "foreign residents" are also listed. There were 1881 Chinese in the county in 1852.

The number of horses, mules, cows and work oxen are given, also the number of bushels of barley, oats, wheat and potatoes (no pears, however) raised in the county are carefully tabulated. The amount of capital employed in the county, Mr. Dungan states, was $1,899,990.00. Aside from quartz and placer mining, a part of this amount was used in ditching, racing, and river fluming.

Joseph Gordon, clerk, set his sign and seal to this Census at Coloma, the County Seat of El Dorado, on the 12th day of January, 1852. Any of our readers interested in this document, may consult Mr. Holmes of the Holmes Book Company, 274, 14th St., Oakland.

In this collection belonging to Mr. Holmes we also found a letter written by Governor Peter Burnett in 1850 from San Jose to the Commandant of the Military Forces of the United States at Sonoma relating to trouble with Indians. Another letter to William Voohries, secretary of state, written from the "Pueblo of San Jose" December 21st, 1849, has to do with squatters at Sacramento. Written in beautiful "prize" handwriting is the letter by one William L. Smith to his Excellency, Peter Burnett referring to a block of gold-bearing quartz purchased at the Mariposa mines for the Washington Monument. It was dated May 25th, 1850.

Louis Adamic went to Antigua to see the three hundred year old Popenoe house. As soon as he saw it, he knew that he had to write a book about it, so he wrote "The House in Antigua" and all who read the book will be mighty glad he went to Antigua and saw this house.

He does his job admirably. First, he recreates the past so that the old inhabitants from Don Luis and Donna Feliciano who had the house built down to the handful of outcasts who found refuge in its ruins after Antigua had been destroyed by a series of earthquakes, are made to live before us, like a bit of pageantry. Incidentally we learn about the history and customs of Guatemala.

Today the house is owned by Dr. Wilson Popenoe, head agronomist "traveling farmer" of the United Fruit Co. whose headquarters are in Honduras. Dr. Popenoe and his wife Dorothy who died recently bought the house in Antigua when it had been a ruin for 160 years. Now, thanks to their valiant efforts "it stands something fine and finished in the midst of wreckage."

There is something vastly refreshing in reading about this house. Our custom in America is to lavish attention on the exterior of a house. This house built in the Moorish tradition, has an unimpressive exterior but "there are lovely inner courts and gardens and exuberantly rich half-Oriental, half African interior decorations." The home, Mr. Adamic declares, was a place for seclusion for these early Spanish settlers. "It was almost a mark of outward calm, a symbol of

Up and Down Broadway

By JACK GAYEY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, (UP)—Well, here we are back at the American Music Hall for another session of uninhibited hilarity within the walls of what used to be a church but which now is a theater of sorts with tables for the gentry and common folk who like a beer, or perhaps something stronger, with their stage fare.

As in the past two seasons, the production which John and Jerrold Krimsky now offer is a lampoon on life and things theatrical of another and more credulous day when dark deeds, maidenly modesty, stout hearts and "unhand me, villain" were ingredients of a formula which never failed to please the carriage trade and the gallery gods.

As they did last season, when the "Naughty Naught" was such a successful attraction, the Brothers Krimsky again have brought forth a new extravaganza rather than a revival of an ancient pulse-hopper. "The Fireman's Flame" is the title and and John Van Antwerp is the fabulous name listed as that of the author. However, the author signs his checks with the scarcely less fantastic Jerrold Krimsky.

You can't enjoy the American Music Hall productions unless you can cast aside any pretense toward a critical attitude and prepare to let yourself go completely to join in with the vociferous chorus of boos which shake the rafters when the villain is up to his dirty work, stamping and whistling which acclaim a triumph of the hero. "The Fireman's Flame" is custom made for the purpose and should be as successful as its predecessors. The tale concerns the volunteer fire companies of the '90s and the successful fight against odds of a brave and manly volunteer who is beset by a rival, a snaky financier and a woman who is no better than she should be.

There is a chorus of boys and girls to enliven the piece with song and dance, using the lyrics of Ted Fetter and the music of Richard Lewine. Occasionally, Harry Meehan, that piercing-voiced tenor of last year's "Naughty Naught," appears before the olio to transcend the din of the customers with ear-splitting renditions of the weepy old-time ballads. There are also between-act vaudeville didos by acrobats, cyclists, jugglers and what not, and community singing of old favorites by the audience.

There have been some swift casualties among the new plays this season.

Zeppelin Company Making Profit With No Ships

FRANKFORT, (UP)—Now that it has no airship operating on any service, the Zeppelin Company is making money for the first time in its existence.

The loss on the flights of the Graf Zeppelin and the ill-fated Hindenburg averaged 40 per cent, which was made up by a government subsidy.

Now the old Graf Zeppelin is on exhibition in the giant new hangar at Frankfort, which was built to accommodate the Hindenburg, and is making money.

E. W. Meyer was in town Monday morning from Camino.

austerity, a statement of their disinclination to crash exhibitionism, a quiet manifestation of their inner qualities—taste, culture, self-control."

Dorothy Popenoe had planned a rich life for her family. When her husband retired, they were to settle in this restored house, read and write books, make trips into the Highlands . . . dig for Mayan ruins, she had already achieved fame as an archeologist, study Guatemalan Indians and plant life. She has gone but her generous spirit lives in that it was her wish that all persons interested in the Colonial period of Guatemala should see the house. If you are going to Guatemala and want to see this house, be sure to read the letter that Mr. Adamic used as a postscript to his book. It is an invitation from Dr. Popenoe to those who are seriously interested.

"In Clover," a comedy about an innocent city couple embroiled with some shrewd country folk over a real estate deal, was produced by the aforementioned Krimskys and lasted three performances.

"Wise Tomorrow," which had some of the Warner Brothers' Hollywood gold behind it, collapsed in equally quick fashion before a cold reception.

Arthur Hopkins' "Blow Ye Winds" closed after a few weeks.

The solo venture of the Rockefellers into the production field remained around a month and a half, but this item, "Virginia," an extravagant musical opus, never made money and lost more than $200,000 for the oil family. Just what will happen to the huge Center Theater, which has shuttled frequently between films and the legit in its brief life, has not been decided. It was largely to keep this house filled that the Rockefellers decided to produce "Virginia."

BRONCHO BILL

A Hot Clue

By Harry F. O'Niell

Hay Fever Marks Child Of Intelligence, Said

ST. LOUIS, (UP)—Children with hay fever and other allergies are more intelligent than children not so afflicted, according to Dr. J. Harvey Black, professor of preventive medicine at Baylor University, Dallas, Tex.

Black, a speaker at the Interstate Postgraduate Medical association here, said that allergic children, despite frequent absences from school, usually rank very high in class work. He also said that those with hay fever and asthma usually avoid other childhood ailments.

Oberlin Finds Use For Christmas Ties

OBERLIN, O., (UP)—Oberlin College's Mummies' Club is going to do something for those unfortunate recipients of the none-too-carefully-chosen Xmas and birthday ties. The school's newspaper asked that all such cravats be saved for use in the club's "Mumbblings of 1938," a presentation described as "an extremely destructive one as regards neckwear."

Mrs. Ella Ayres came up from Stockton Sunday to spend several days visiting old-time friends.

Bean Patch Entered In Garden Show

BOSTON, (UP)—Teacher got a surprise when she asked her second-grade class at Longfellow school to bring up their entries in the school-sponsored home-grown flower and vegetable competition.

Some carried flowers in vases, others bunches of turnips, but Bradford Sterl, 6, wheeled in his red cart in which, still rooted in their native soil, was a patch of stringbeans.

Soap And Water Rated High As Germ-Killer

ST. LOUIS, (UP)—Advances in surgical science since the World War have reduced amputations in cases of compound fractures from 50 per cent to 1 or 2 per cent, Dr. John J. Moorhead, of Columbia University, told the International Medical assembly here.

Dr. Moorhead said that soap and water has replaced antiseptics as germ killers, because antiseptics strong enough to kill germs will also kill tissue, and will sometimes cause great damage in cases of compound tissues.

102 Enrollees Join Snowline Camp During October

102 individuals were added to the Camp Snowline roster during October, according to an announcement made by Captain Don M. Hoffman, Commanding Officer of the CCC camp.

The counties and the number of enrollees supplied are El Dorado, three; San Joaquin, 47; San Francisco, 32; Sacramento, 17; Amador two, Calaveras, one.

The company strength on November 3 was 197 which is considerably greater than it was during the summer months.

A homecoming banquet is planned for Saturday, November 27 at Camp Snowline. At this time, it is the hope of Captain Hoffman and the facilitating personnel that all former members of Company 999 CCC residing in this vicinity will be present for the fiesta.

El Dorado Spike Camp at Al Tahoe will close for the winter season on November 10, according to the present plans of the Forest Service and the entire strength of the organization will be utilized on the winter schedule which includes the continued construction work at the Institute of Forest Genetics, near Placerville and at the Forest Service Placerville Warehouse.

When the occasion demands it a crew will be detailed to feed deer along the "Pony Express Route," as far up as Kyburz.

The last summer saw the following projects partially or entirely completed in the Lake Valley District. The Echo Lake road and pier; landscaping at the Eagle Falls Ranger Station and the Bay View Public Forest Service Camp; the Fallen Leaf Fire Trail; the Meyers-Zephyr Cove Telephone line; and extensive expansion improvements at the El Dorado County Public Camp.

Other important works of the spike camp were fire protection in the Meyers Ranger District and road maintenance and construction in the summer home tracts of the Forest service along the Placerville-Lake Tahoe Highway and in the Lake Tahoe Region.

An average of 30 men were stationed in the El Dorado Spike Camp during the last period.

WOOD ARTISAN FORGETS LOSS OF ONE HAND, CARVES

NEW LONDON, Conn., (UP)—Loss of his right hand and illness which forced George H. Lincoln to relinquish his gasoline station several years ago resulted in giving this summer resort section one of its most accomplished wood carvers.

"Some fellows," said Lincoln, "lose a hand or a foot and think they are finished for life and that they can never do any more work. But I can do anything I want to. I don't miss that hand at all. Don't even think of it."

A farmer most of his life, Lincoln knew nothing about carving or turning wood. He began operations with a hammer and a saw and a knife. One of his first products was a small wooden chest of cedar with oak inlay. "That was made from an old fence post," he said.

Today his workshop is equipped with a lathe, joiner, circular saw and drill press, in addition to many hand tools. One of his proudest accomplishments is a seven-piece dining room set, all inlaid, from red cedar and cypress. He makes table and floor lamps, pin trays, powder boxes, beads, rings, bowls, tables, checkerboard tables, cedar chests and chairs.

The woods he uses most are red cedar, black walnut, white pine, California redwood, cypress and yellow sumac. He never stains his work, but polishes the wood and lets the contrasting grains furnish the color and design.

WEAR DOG COLLARS

COLUMBUS, Mo., (UP)—Co-eds at the University of Missouri are going to the dogs—at least, as far as their clothes are concerned. Three girls the other day appeared on the campus wearing dog collars complete with the brass studs, name plates and locks.

"TUGBOAT ANNIE" BOSSES ENGINES ON RIVER STEAMBOAT

ST. LOUIS, (UP)—Fiction's lovable "Tugboat Annie" has nothing on Mrs. Grady McConnell, 37-year-old grandmother, who serves as engineer on the Mississippi river tug Turnbill.

Mrs. McConnell is the only riverboat engineer on the inland waterway. Her pay from the Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Company is equal to that of her husband, Richard McConnell, who is pilot of the tug.

"People tell me that woman's place is in the home," Mrs. McConnell said. "But that's bosh! A home is fine, but I'll take the realization that I'm doing a real job."

"Handling a job ordinarily assigned to a man is thrilling to me. Then, too I get a kick out of knowing I'm helping to move goods up and down the river."

Social life, Mrs. McConnell declared, has no appeal to her.

"I'd rather be in the engine-room of a tugboat," she said, "pushing a load of wheat to market, than to entertain a bunch of women at a bridge party."

When the Turnbill ties up at the end of a trip, however, Mrs. McConnell takes to quilting.

Anesthetics Running Low In Shanghai

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Reports to the commerce department today said that stocks of ether and chloroform were exhausted and urgently needed in Shanghai.

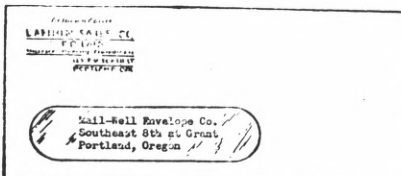

Iodine supplies were reported depleted. Mercury, anti-gangrene compound, boric acid, quinine, chlorine solution, glycerine, cholera vaccines and strong antiseptics, also were running low.

FLOODS REDUCE OUTPUT OF FUR IN YUKON RIVER VALLEY

SEWARD, Alaska, (UP)—Upland game and fur-bearing animals inhabiting the Yukon River country suffered setbacks by recent floods that will require years to adjust, Frank Dufresne, executive officer of the Alaska Game Commission and regional director of the Biological Survey, said.

The animals were driven back 50 miles, Dufresne estimated, and he said it was impossible to estimate losses suffered.

Full damage done at the time of the floods is now being made known. He said it would be felt in the season's trapping. The Alaska game commission head returned from the districts affected with information that attitude of the people toward conservation of game had undergone radical change in the past 10 years.

People are becoming more and more interested in the conservation movement, Dufresne said.
